Scotland Yard Has No Sense of Humor

12 July, 2005

Greetings, Gentle Reader,

Remember that old commercial that said, "It's not nice to fool Mother Nature?" Right now, I would say it's not nice, in fact, it's downright stupid to try to fool Scotland Yard. They've already figured out who blew up the bus, and they aren't through yet. Those boys play rough, and they're in a quarrelsome mood. In fact, they are blasting their way into at least one house north of London.

The puzzling thing is their government has allowed viciously radical Muslim clerics to whip up their followers to attack both them and us, with the goal of establishing Islam in Britain, Europe, and America, at the point of a sword. Those clerics, one of whom is Abu Hamza Al-Masri, the guy lacking a hand and some of his eyesight (Being a terrorist is a hazardous occupation, you know.), have said they would "own" Downing Street and the White House. They finally arrested that particular guy, but they let him rant, spew hatred, and indoctrinate his followers for years, before they locked him up.

Most Brits thought they would not be attacked, because they are so tolerant. They have had a rude awakening, and the lesson is sinking in.

Remember that guy who used to say that we could trust the communists to do precisely what they said they would do? It appears radical Muslims fall in that category, too. They say they will take over the West, and they mean it.

They tackled the wrong people this time. Those Brits are a tough bunch. If you set out to whip their police or military, you'd better bring your lunch.

We have to ask ourselves, are we that tough? Or are we so politically correct we will suffer more attacks before we, too, get serious about protecting ourselves?

We still are falling all over ourselves to show Muslims we are tolerant. We want them to know we are the good guys, and will allow them all the rights and privileges of citizenship, whether or not they are citizens.

But those who want to destroy us are intensely intolerant. They are determined to deprive us of everything, including rights, privileges, and freedom.

Time magazine quoted Marwan Abu Ubeida, a Muslim jihadist: "The only person who matters is Allah – and the only question he will ask me is, 'How many infidels did you kill?'... Yes, I am a terrorist. Write that down: I admit I am a terrorist. (The Koran) says it is the duty of Muslims to bring terror to the enemy, so being a terrorist makes me a good Muslim." Then he quotes Koran 8:60, and, yes, it says they are to strike terror into the enemy of Allah. That means us.

Did you know you were an enemy of Allah? Their radical clerics assure them that, indeed, we are Allah's enemy, and must die.

If these radicals had been sneaky and secretive, we could be forgiven for not expecting attacks, but they have been wide open about their goals. That means both we and the Brits are downright dumb! These people are out to destroy us, and we had better pay attention!

It's past time to stop being warm and understanding. Being sweet and cuddly with them just won't cut it, because they understand us much better than we understand them. They know we are accepting and kind, that we have no intention of depriving them of anything. That just makes us easier targets.

None of that matters, because we are in a fight with them for our very existence, and it's way past time for us to realize it and put on our armor, because we are going to need it.

Maybe Scotland Yard could bring us up to speed.
